International Award Categories:

The award comprises a total of four categories. While the first two categories are aimed at Austrian participants, categories 3 and 4 are international in scope.

Category 3: National/International Female Engineering Achievement of the Year

The National/International Female Engineering Achievement of the Year Award celebrates visionary women whose work sets new benchmarks in their technical field and recognizes solutions that have been achieved using methods or processes in the respective technical field and are distinguished by:

- Innovation and/or
- Complexity of the planning task solved and/or
- Outstanding design

This includes but is not limited to:

- engineering projects that help to improve the environment in terms of water, soil, air, climate, energy production and building technology.
- engineering projects that comprise areas such as structural engineering, transport, traffic, supply and disposal, water management, and protection against natural hazards.
- engineering projects relating to living space such as urban planning, spatial planning, landscape planning, traffic planning, tourism, recreation and much more
- engineering projects from all fields of technical research and technology such as electronics, nanotechnology, medical technology, surveying, mechanical engineering, wastewater technology, automation, IT and agricultural technology.

One realised project must be submitted in which aspects such as functionality, innovation, rationality, and ecology have been taken into account. Female engineers in and outside Austria are invited to submit a project for Category III.

Category 4: International Female Architect of the Year

The International Female Architect of the Year Award honors female architects working outside Austria. Only female architects living outside Austria are invited to submit three realised and built projects.

anotHERVIEWture Award: Submit your projects!

The anotHERVIEWture Award empowers women in the field of building culture by offering a platform to gain visibility, share their work, actively participate, and connect with one another. It is a distinction honoring outstanding achievements by women in the field of architecture and engineering. Its goal is to highlight the contributions of female architects and engineers while promoting diversity and innovation in these two sectors. Through this award, we aim to raise awareness of the vital contributions women make to architecture and engineering, while creating strong role models for future generations.

Initiated by the Federal Chamber of Architects and Chartered Engineering Consultants of Austria (Bundeskammer der Ziviltechniker:innen Österreich), the anotHERVIEWture Award was established to drive positive change and promote greater equality and diversity within the built environment. 🙌
